Thyme Well Spent Catering

Thyme Well Spent is a husband and wife team that prides ourselves in using the best organic, local, sustainable products to responsibly create unforgettable culinary creations. Food is our passion and we strive to put that passion and pride onto each plate. To us food is more than just something we eat, it's art, it's a way of life, it's what keeps our bodies running. Fittingly our company grew organically after providing our services for our friends' dinner parties. From there we have been fortunate enough to diversify ourselves in the culinary business via high end dinner parties, large corporate gatherings, meal prep, and wine paired cooking classes. There is no event too big or too small. From a romantic chef prepared dinner for two, to a large corporate gathering we can take care of any and all culinary needs. Food is what drives us, and the quality, passion, and drive show through each and every savory bite. Creating experiences one table at a time.
